IVDiagnostics, Inc. appoints Sarah Ware, Ph.D. its Chief Executive Officer

IVDiagnostics executive board has chosen Sarah Ware, Ph.D. to fill the vacancy created by the recent departure of Luis Nunez, Ph.D.

Dr. Ware joins the Company from Blossom Bio Labs, where she was the founder and CEO. IVDiagnostics and Blossom Bio Labs had licensed the rights to market and commercialize the RT-LAMP NAAT molecular diagnostic test for COVID-19 developed by Dr. Ware.

This is a historic day for a biotech company in Indiana, said a number of IVDiagnostics' supporters including Mike Haniff, M.D., Ph.D. (c), Co-Founder & CEO of HM Healthcare Partners. "This is exciting news in the field of scientific research. It highlights the connection between virology and cancer research and helps to inform a novel approach to combat the COVID-19 pandemic", stated Dr. Haniff.

"IVDiagnostics has been expanding its product development into the area of infectious disease and Dr. Ware brings a level of expertise that directly relates to the rapid diagnosis of viruses and the current pandemic", noted Robert E. Johnson, III.

Frank Szczepanski, Co-Founder and Chairman of IVDiagnostics was pleased by his board's approval of Dr. Ware as its CEO. He stated that "her knowledge and expertise in developing commercially viable diagnostic tests was a key factor in determining our next Chief Executive Officer".

IVDiagnostics is working with several members of its medical advisory board to create an over-the-counter version of its RT-LAMP NAAT molecular diagnostic test. By working directly with clinicians and testing patients who are experiencing Covid symptoms, the Company can gather the data necessary to move through the regulatory process.

IVDiagnostics is a biomedical technology company that developed and manufactures VELOX, an in vitro assay for metastatic breast cancer cells circulating in the bloodstream. Its board of directors includes Robert E. Johnson, III chairman of the board of Methodist Hospitals.

IVDiagnostics is a private company incorporated in Indiana and is establishing relationships with distributors and licensees in several parts of the world. For further information, visit:
